

Anthony J. Artuso

Anthony J. Artuso Sr. is one of the owners of the famed Artuso Pastry Shop, located in the Arthur Avenue, Little Italy section of the Bronx, NY. Born and raised in that very same neighborhood, he was the second of four boys born to Italian immigrant parents, Vincent Sr. and Betty Artuso. He later attended New York University, where his studies coupled with his experience in baking, prepared him to take on his family legacy of running the business after his father and Artuso Pastry founder passed in 1987. With his business acumen, analytical skills and keen problem-solving abilities, he purchased and reorganized the business to nearly triple the size to take up half a city block in 1974. Since opening in 1946, Artuso Pastry has expanded to include a retail café in Mamaroneck, NY as well as a thriving wholesale business in Mt. Vernon, NY, that sells nationally. After dedicating over 55 years in the business, Anthony Sr. still operates the retail and wholesale locations with his brother, Joseph, his children and his two son-in-laws. Artuso Pastry continues to grow while maintaining quality and family tradition. They have received numerous awards and accolades over the years and remain a staple in the Belmont community.
